WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16. 1737.

4.747.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

Vienna, October 29. O. S.

THE Velt Marshal Count de Palfi is sent for hither from the Army, to preside at the Head of the Commission which the Emperor has appointed, for enquiring into all the Transactions of the last Campaign in Hungary, pursuant to the Directions of the Velt Marshal Count de Seckendorff, whose Affairs the Emperor has order'd to be made an End of as soon as possible. Mean Time the Publick continues to lay many Complaints to the Charge of that General. Amongst others they accuse him of having, without any Necessity, hurry'd the Army towards Nissa, when the Weather was extremely hot, and in a Country where Provisions were scarce; of having weakened the Bulk of the Army by a Number of unnecessary Detachments; of having fatigued the Troops with Marches and Counter-Marches, &c. But as the Court has not yet published any Thing upon that Head, those Articles are not much to be depended on.

According to some Particular Advices, General Schmettau, who was thought to be dead, is very ill at Buda; where, 'tis said, he has been arrested by Order of the Court, and that he is to be brought hither, as soon as his Health will permit. They add too, That Colonel Lentulus has been put under an Arrest; but this News requires Confirmation.

The last Letters from the Army say, That the Velt Marshal Count Philippi is very advantageously posted with his Army, in a Camp nearer to Sabatch, where he has made a Line of Circumvallation round it, which he has fortify'd with several Pieces of Cannon. The Infidels, who continue to rendezvous in Bosnia and Servia, are said to amount to 70,000 Men. 'Tis confirm'd, that the Turks have invested Ustia; but the Report of its having surrendered is groundless. The Baron de Seckendorff, a Relation of the Velt Marshal General is returned hither from Berlin, where he has been employ'd in a Negotiation from the Emperor.

His Imperial Majesty has appointed the Counts de Welzegg, Harrach, and Cordona, to be added to the Four Commissioners (mentioned in our former) for enquiring into the Affairs of the Count de Seckendorff; about which General Schmettau, and Col. Lentulus, are to be particularly examined. On the very Day the Count de Seckendorff was arrested, the Counts de Sellern and Kuffstein, Members of the Aulick Council of War, went to his House, by the Emperor's Order, and seized his Papers. The Countess, who chose at first to be confined with her Husband, being of Opinion that she can do him more Service abroad, has desired and obtained Leave to lodge where she will. Some say that the Russian Court has contributed to the Arrest of this General, by censuring the Method of his executing the Plan of the Operations of the Campaign.

The Velt Marshal de Khevenhuller, who came last Tuesday Night from the Army, went next Day to Court, and was most graciously received by the Emperor, who conversed with him about 2 Hours; after which the General made his Appearance in the Council of War, where he gave an Account of the State of the Army, and of several Particulars relating to the Conduct of the Officers under Arrest. That Night, and next Day, he had a Conference with the Velt Marshal de Konigsfegg and some other Ministers; and after having taken Leave of his Imperial Majesty, he returned Yesterday to the Army.

It appears by a Letter from Hamburgh, that the Russians propose to have no less than 275,000 Men on Foot next Year, and a numerous Squadron upon the Black Sea.

According to a private Letter from a good Hand at Vienna, the chief Subject of Political Conversation, is the good Understanding said to be perfectly restored between the Families of Austria and Bavaria, by the Mediation of France. They tell us, that by Virtue of the Accommodation, the Elector of Bavaria is to furnish the Emperor with 10,000 Men, who are to be maintain'd by the States of Austria out of the Contributions which they annually pay to the Emperor. 'Tis added, that the Electors of Bavaria and Cologne, and the Elector Palatine, have also promised to give their Votes at the Dyet of the Empire, for the Extraordinary Subsidy which his Imperial Majesty demands, on Account of the War against the Turks. 'Tis said too, that in Consideration of these Services done by the Bavarian Family to the Austrian, the Emperor consents to the Marriage of the Electoral Princess of Bavaria, to the King of the Two Sicilies, which he would never yet agree to. If this be all true, as they say it is, 'twill certainly be a vast Help to the Imperial Court, in case they are oblig'd to continue the War against the Turks, as in all Appearance they will: But the Principal Thing will be still wanting, that is to say, Money, which where to get they know not; the Sources from which they used to have a plentiful Supply in Cases of Emergency, being, at a very improper Juncture, stopp'd up.

The last Letters from Paris, which are of the 7th Instant, O. S. say, That M. Seguin, Advocate in the Parliament of Bretagne, has publish'd a Pamphlet at Rennes, in 44 Pages in 4to, intitled, The True Secret of the Longitude discovered: In which he declares, that he has found out a new and the only Method for discovering the Longitude, both at Sea and Land, to the greatest Nicety; without having Recourse to Eclipses, Pendulums, and Regulators. But he reserves it to himself, to discover the Secret hereafter, when a Provisional Reward is settled, which he fixes at 60,000 Livres; or otherwise he shall doom a Discovery of such vast Importance, to Eternal Silence.

The Royal Academy of Inscriptions and Belles Lettres at Paris, has declared the Thesis for the Prize, which is to be distributed in a Full Assembly, after Easter, 1739, viz. What was the Day and Month of the Roman Year, on which the Consuls used to enter into their Office, from the Time of the Expulsion of the Kings to the Death of Julius Caesar: With the Variations that have happened in that Custom from Time to Time.

A Letter from Constantinople, which makes mention of the late Grand Vizier, says that that Minister had a good Share of very fine Qualities, and was reckoned one of the best Politicians in the Ottoman Empire; but that his Disgrace was owing to a certain Fickleness of Temper, and a natural Timidity, so that he could never prevail on himself to pass the Dneister to meet the Ruthians, and hinder them from taking Oczakow, tho' he had a numerous and brave Army under his Command.

They write from Leghorn, That a Commissary is arrived in the Isle of Corsica from France, on board a Genoese Galley, with Orders to the Magistrates of Bastia, and all other Towns in the Hands of the Genoese, to provide Quarters for the Troops which are coming thither from France; but that the Inhabitants of those Towns have represented, that they are able to defend themselves against the Malecontents, without being at the Charge of any Foreign Succours. As for the Baron de Neuhoff, he is so little talk'd of, that nobody certainly knows where he is.

Letters from Paris say, That M. de Maupertuis, one of the Members of the Royal Academy of Sciences, who went by the King's Order to Lapland, to determine the Figure of the Earth, in the farthest Degree of North Latitude, read a Memorial to the Society of the 1st Instant, of the Observations they made in that Country: Wherein he demonstrated, with great Perspicuity and Elegance, that the true Figure of the Earth is a Spheroid, which grows flat towards the Poles. Which is a Confirmation of what Sir Isaac Newton, M. Huygens, and several other celebrated Geometricians, before observed in Theory. A Spheroid is a Term given to a Body, which somewhat resembles the Figure of a Sphere, but is not exactly round as that is, and has a bigger Diameter.

On Sunday Evening about 7 o'Clock, 2 Servants living in the Neighbourhood of Finchley, and both mounted on one Horse, going over the Common to Whetstone, on an Errand for their Masters, were stopped crossing the Causeway leading from the High Road to North End, by a single Highwayman, who presented a Pistol at them, and demanded their Money, and took 20 s. from them; but the Servants pleading that it was their Master's Money, and that one of them was sent to buy Yeast, and the other some Lemons, he returned them a small Matter, sufficient to purchase the same, and then rode off, saying, Good Beer and Punch should never be spoild.
